Workshop Description

For almost 25 years, The Trust has been providing continuing education workshops and individual consultations, with a focus on improving psychologists' risk management skills and strategies. These workshops have evolved from basic concepts and strategies, to a more applied, integrated, and strategic approach to help you protect yourself from adverse disciplinary and legal actions.

For this newest workshop, The Trust Risk Management Program reviewed data from 70,000 consultations provided to date in order to determine which issues and questions are most pressing for today's psychologists. Topics will include boundaries and multiple relationships, challenging terminations, working with children in the midst of family conflict, coping with disciplinary complaints, psychotherapy patient requests for legally-related documentation, and, time permitting, working with clients in other jurisdictions.

Objectives

- Describe basic principles of risk management, as applied to several specific clinical situations that frequently arise in professional practice;
- Identify high risk boundary violations and multiple relationship situations;
- Recall important considerations when making therapeutic termination decisions;
- Evaluate potential risks when working with children in high-conflict families;
- Formulate a plan for responding to disciplinary or legal complaints;
- Identify issues and strategies when psychotherapy patients make quasi-forensic requests;
- Develop a decision-making strategy regarding working with clients in other jurisdictions.

Continuing Education Credits

Sequence IX: Ethics & Risk Management in Complex Clinical Conundrums is sponsored by The Trust. The Trust is approved by the American Psychological Association to sponsor continuing education for psychologists. The Trust maintains responsibility for this program and its content.

IMPORTANT NOTICE: Those who attend the workshop and complete the Trust evaluation form will receive six continuing education credits. Please note that APA CE rules require that we only give credit to those who attend the entire workshop. Those arriving more than 15 minutes after the scheduled start time or leaving before the workshop is completed will not receive CE credits and will not be eligible for the 15% premium discount described below.

The Trust Continuing Education Grievance Policy

The Trust is fully committed to conducting all activities in strict conformance with the American Psychological Association's Ethical Principles of Psychologists. The Trust will comply with all legal and ethical guidelines for non-discrimination in promotional activities, program content and in the treatment of CE participants. The Trust CE Director is responsible for complying with these standards.

While the Trust strives to assure fair treatment for all participants and to anticipate problems before they occur, occasionally grievances may be filed. In cases where a participant files a written or oral grievance, the following actions are taken:

- If the grievance concerns the content of the workshop, webinar, book, or the continuing education test, a Trust representative will mediate and will be the final arbitrator. If the participant requests action, the CE Director or a Trust representative will either provide a credit for a subsequent CE offering or provide a partial or full refund of the CE fee already paid.

- Actions involving a credit or a refund will require a written note documenting the grievance for record-keeping purposes. The aggrieved individual need not sign the note. If the grievance specifically concerns The Trust, the CE Director or Trust representative will attempt to arbitrate.

First off, what's the deal with the name Lost Rhino? Well, the "Rhino" in our name was actually inspired by a surfing term, a rhino chaser: someone out to find the best waves, the biggest waves – a true adventurer. The "Lost" we just added because we have a West Coast/surfing vibe, and there's not an ocean in sight of Ashburn, Virginia. We like to have fun.

Lost Rhino's founder, Matt Hagerman, wanted to start his own adventure, and that adventure was Lost Rhino Brewing Company. The adventure began back in 2011, Loudoun County Virginia was starving for local craft brews. Old Dominion Brewing Company, which had been in the county since 1989, packed up their operation and left for Delaware leaving void in the local community. Matt, having been a brewer at Old Dominion for some years, wanted to pick up where it left off. He purchased some of Old Dominion's brewing equipment, including its 25 barrel brewhouse. Matt wanted to bring the spirit of craft beer back into the county, and began brewing some of our first beers: New River Pale Ale, Rhino Chasers Pilsner, and Face Plant IPA. Nowadays, Lost Rhino has grown quite a bit since it's founding, but we have never lost sight of our love for the craft. In the brew house, we take pride in bringing classic styles and local flavor in all of our beers. Everything we craft is personal; we thrive on choosing the scenic route, the tough challenge, the road less traveled.

It's time to Get Lost!
